In the year since implementing Waterlase Dentistry™, Dr. Rader has steadily increased the number of procedures he performs and expanded the capabilities of his practice. His patients love safe and minimally invasive laser technology with less anesthesia and reduced post-op sensitivity. Dr. Rader appreciates how Waterlase has assisted treating his patients with dental anxiety and phobias. He plans on expanding the number of Waterlase procedures he performs in his practice.

"I have one patient who used to get tremendous pain after a filling for a week and had to take prescription-grade medication for the pain... started using the laser on her and she has no pain at all. She loves the Waterlase."

"This has helped us significantly with the percentage of our population that is terrified of needles, drills, and pain."
